

New York Stories

New York: the novel
by Edward Rutherfurd
A tale set against a backdrop of New York City's history from its founding through the September 11 attacks traces the experiences of characters who witness such periods as the Revolutionary War, the city's emergence as a financial giant, and the Gilded Age.

Golden Hill: a novel of old New York
by Francis Spufford
Set in 1746, an irresistible picture of a New York provokingly different from its later metropolitan self but already entirely a place where a young man with a fast tongue can invent himself afresh, fall in love--and find a world of trouble.

World's fair
by E. L. Doctorow
A nostalgic novel evokes a world where fiction and reality meet within the 1930s Bronx childhood of Edgar, growing up through the intensity of the Depression and the dazzling hope of the 1939 New York World's Fair.

Another Brooklyn
by Jacqueline Woodson
Torn between the fantasies of her youth and the realities of a life marked by violence and abandonment, August reunites with a beloved old friend who challenges her to come to terms with the difficulties that forced her to grow up too quickly.

Let the great world spin
by Colum McCann
In 1974, a radical young Irish monk struggles with personal demons while making his home among Bronx prostitutes, a group of mothers is separated by personal differences in spite of shared grief over their lost Vietnam soldier sons, and a young grandmother solicits men at the side of her teenage daughter.

Fresh kills
by Bill Loehfelm
Enraged by memories of abuse at the hands of his recently murdered father, John Sanders, Jr. becomes increasingly obsessed with finding the killer.

New York 2140
by Kim Stanley Robinson
As New York City of the twenty-second century is submerged under rising waters, the residents rapidly adapt until the thriving metropolis becomes a vibrant, though permanently changed, canal region of island skyscrapers.

and pay tribute to the human side of a great city.

Humans of New York
by Brandon Stanton
In this photographic census of New York City, which is inspired by the blog of the same name, the author showcases 400 color photos, including exclusive portraits and all-new stories that capture the outsized personalities of New York
