

Understanding and Overcoming Racism

How to be an antiracist

by Ibram X Kendi

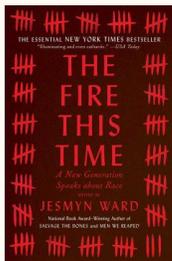

Combines ethics, history, law, and science with a personal narrative to describe how to move beyond the awareness of racism and contribute to making society just and equitable.

So You Want to Talk About Race

by Ijeoma Oluo

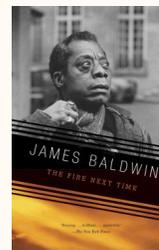

Tackles the sensitive, hyper-charged racial landscape in current America, discussing the issues of privilege, police brutality, intersectionality, micro-aggressions, the Black Lives Matter movement, and the "N" word.

The fire this time: a new generation speaks about race

by Jesmyn Ward

A continuation of James Baldwin's 1963 The Fire Next Time that examines race issues from the past half century through essays, poems and memoir pieces by some of her generation's most original thinkers and writers.

The Fire Next Time

by James Baldwin

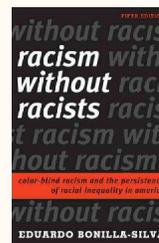

The powerful evocation of a childhood in Harlem that helped to galvanize the early days of the civil rights movement examines the deep consequences of racial injustice to both the individual and the body politic.

Me and white supremacy: combat racism, change the world, and become a good ancestor

by Layla F Saad

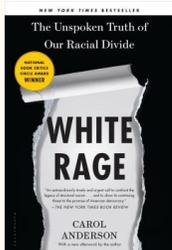

An updated and expanded edition of the Instagram challenge that launched a cultural movement about taking responsibility for first-person racism to stop unconsciously inflicting pain on others.

Racism without racists: color-blind racism and the persistence of racial inequality in America

by Eduardo Bonilla-Silva

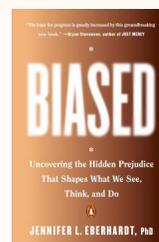

Documents how, beneath our contemporary conversation about race, there lies a full-blown arsenal of arguments, phrases, and stories that whites use to account for—and ultimately justify—racial inequalities.

White rage: the unspoken truth of our racial divide

by Carol Anderson

Reframes our continuing conversation about race, chronicling the powerful forces opposed to black progress in America.

Biased: uncovering the hidden prejudice that shapes what we see, think, and do

by Jennifer L. Eberhardt

A leading expert on unconscious racial bias examines the manifestations of automatic racism in contemporary society and how they influence race relations and criminal justice

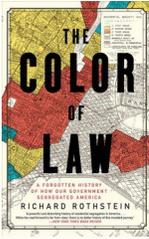

Long Beach Public Library

111 West Park Ave

Long Beach, New York 11561 | (516) 350-5394

www.longbeachlibrary.org

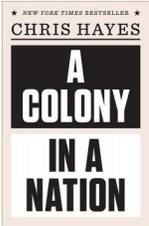

Antiracism

The color of law: a forgotten history of how our government segregated America

by Richard Rothstein

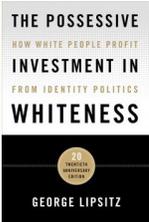

Argues that laws and policies created by local, state, and federal government deliberately promoted segregation in metropolitan areas during the twentieth century, creating long-lasting consequences.

A colony in a nation

by Christopher Hayes

An exploration of policing and democracy in America examines how aggressive policing combined with racial inequality has created conditions resembling a police state, and argues for a more democratic and sympathetic justice system.

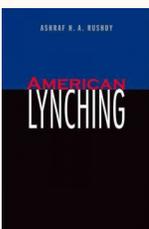

The possessive investment in whiteness: how white people profit from identity politics

by George Lipsitz

How white people profit from identity politics, with discussions of political whiteness, vigilante violence, police misconduct and white flight, white fright, white fragility and white fear.

American lynching

by Ashraf H. A. Rushdy

How lynching in America has endured, evolved, and changed in meaning over the course of three centuries, from its origins in early Virginia to the present day.

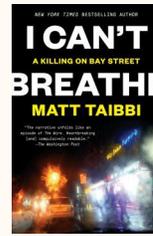

Stamped from the beginning: the definitive history of racist ideas in America

by Ibram X. Kendi

A comprehensive history of anti-black racism focuses on the lives of five major players in American history and highlights the debates that took place between assimilationists and segregationists and between racists and anti-racists.

I can't breathe: a killing on Bay Street

by Matt Taibbi

An exploration into the roots and aftermath of the infamous killing of Eric Garner by the police in 2014, sharing insights into the ensuing nationwide series of protests that reinforced the Black Lives Matter movement and transformed American politics

The new Jim Crow: mass incarceration in the age of colorblindness

by Michelle Alexander

By targeting black men through the War on Drugs and decimating communities of color, the U.S. criminal justice system functions as a contemporary system of racial control—relegating millions to a permanent second-class status.

Citizen: an American lyric

by Claudia Rankine

Recounts mounting racial aggressions in ongoing encounters in twenty-first-century daily life and in the media. The accumulative stresses come to bear on a person's ability to speak, perform, and stay alive.

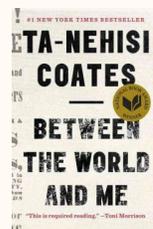

White fragility: why it's so hard to talk to white people about racism

by Robin J. DiAngelo

Analyzes defensive moves that white people make when racially challenged, how these actions protect racial inequality, and presents strategies for engaging more constructively in these conversations.

Between the world and me

by Ta-Nehisi Coates

Told through the author's own evolving understanding of the subject over the course of his life comes a bold and personal investigation into America's racial history and its contemporary echoes.